We're All A Little Off

Life and its pressures closed in on us every day. English papers were always due. A major test was always coming up. The person we liked never noticed us. The person we could not stand always noticed us. How did we cope?

We gained the needed energy to get us through each day from our own craziness. Football players dressed up like cheerleaders. We dressed in togas and Romed the halls. We clanned together in groups for unified insanity: GO FOR IT, G-MEN, and others. We kidnapped our friends in the wee hours of the morning. We wrapped people's houses in 100 rolls of toilet paper. And we lost our voices yelling at each pep rally. Indeed, we were all a little off; it was the only way to survive!

Making Life Happen

We, the students of Pearce High School, shaped our year through our thoughts and all that we did. We were the driving force at Pearce. It was our energy and time invested in the assemblies that made them possible. Our money and time were what made the many organizations possible. It was our interest that listened to Reverend Sithole, Co-Prime Minister of Rhodesia, and cheered his cause. Our efforts re-established our break after it had been taken away for two weeks due to a messy lunch room. When conflicts with school policy arose, it was our representatives who negotiated to resolve the problems. We were the people who painted the signs and decorated the lockers. We were the ones who invested creativity into Pearce. We made life happen.

Different Perspectives

No matter where we turned, there was always something happening. But how did we see these events? Did we empathize with Kelly Leech as she was crowned Homecoming Queen? Did we laugh at our own foolishness for putting off our homework until the last minute? Did we learn to check to see if our lights were off? Did we accept our poor grade on a test and learn to study more? Or did we envy others? Did we curse our luck when our battery was dead? Did we frown upon the teachers when we did not finish an assignment? The answers to these questions determined how we reacted to life; they made living pleasant or made living a drudgery.

Life Is Rough

"You would not believe all the homework I've got! I have to read a novel for English, study for a test in Algebra II, do my Spanish problems, and finish a Biology lab. On top of all that, I work tonight! There's no way I'll get it all done."

We all said that at one time or another this year. Problems were just a part of our life. And if it were not our homework, it was our dates.

"What am I going to do? Bob asked me to go see 'Animal House' with him this Friday night, so I accepted. But then John called and asked me to go to the dance with him after the game Friday. Do you know how long I've been waiting for John to ask me out? Ages! Well, I'll call Bob and tell him I have to work. That'll solve the problem!"

After she called and canceled her date with Bob, John called saying that he had to work, leaving her dateless.

Problems were just a part of living. But through it all we knew that the trials were worth enduring: the troubles made life challenging and fun.

Living Daily

August 28, 1978, brought us back to school. Lost sophomores, schedule foul-ups, and jammed lockers greeted us, but we were too busy reacquainting ourselves with our friends to notice. Homecoming came, and the Juniors broke tradition by winning the hall decorations with the Bahama's in the International theme. Football season flew by only to leave us with a day of Friday classes and blahs. We recovered at Christmas break only to struggle until April and Easter break. Yet before we knew it, the first of June was knocking at the door: the year had passed all too quickly. Now the year is a fading light in our minds as we push on towards the future; if only we could hold to those special moments . . .

Guys

. . . played a slightly different role at Pearce than they had in the past. As usual, they were leaders at PHS as editors of all publications, presidents of many clubs, and initiators of most dates. Yet the males infiltrated the girls' realm as Mark York and Hunter Holliday became cheerleaders. The changing times afforded guys the chance to take a passive position as a few adventuresome girls asked them out. Macho-man images increased in popularity with the girls, and several guys strived to build the perfect body. In male fashion, there was also a change. The look for guys was casual, but the sloppy dress of 1974 was unacceptable. As the times changed, so did the role of the masculine student.

Girls. . . continued to play a traditional role at PHS. As they had in the past, the fair sex comprised the working force for most of the organizations at Pearce. They supplied the time and energy necessary to make the clubs successful. Girls also comprised a majority of the spirit organizations such as the Pep Squad, Pacesetters, and cheerleaders. Consistency held the female sex when break came: most turned into a personal news service with all the latest gossip. Fashion was still important to most girls as they rolled up their jeans and put on their high heeled shoes. Some dared to break new frontiers in clothing styles for school. Even with the growing popularity of the Equal Rights Amendment, girls held a traditional position at Pearce.

Just Friends

We had people of the opposite sex always around us, affecting all that we did. They shared a pizza and saw The Wiz with us. We sometimes had a picnic lunch, or just talked over the phone for a while. Occasionally we spent time studying together for major tests. Through these situations, we developed valuable relationships with the other sex. Special people shared memorable times with us on Homecoming Day or at the Prom. Yet for a majority of us, we had mostly notable friendships with the opposite sex. We learned of life and developed a unique love for others through these companionships. But no matter what the case, we were "just friends."

Heat Wave

Perspiration, hot and sticky. Watermelon, cool and crisp. Summer breezes, light and refreshing. Night drives with the windows open. Eating ice cream before it melted all over the car seat.

For some, summer afforded a chance to prepare for the next year. Summer school victims suffered through five hours of class a day. Band squads stomped across the field in preparation for marching season. Journalists worked on their master plans for the publications. Cheerleaders perfected their yells to motivate spirit. But all of us gathered our thoughts and energies for the next nine months.

Our friends provided a few special summer days. Six Flags had a new excitement when we rode on the double-loop roller coaster. Lake parties gave us a chance to get together with many friends, have some fun, and cool off. Ice cream did not lose any popularity: it tasted best when with a friend on a hot summer eve. We had a hamburger with that special someone, then shared a movie in the air conditioned theatre. Times shared with friends were indeed a relief from the summer heat.

We played, we worked, we shared, and we knew the heat was worth bearing.

It's Friday, and that means the start of another Mustang pep rally. Deafening roars come from the crowd of students as each class tries to out-yell the others. New surprises are used by each class in an attempt to win a spirit stick. Once again the Pacesetters, backed by the band, perform their routines for the spectators. Finally, there is a lull for the singing of the Alma Mater, and the close of another pep rally.

Part-time Jobs

Money. Everyone wants it, and everyone needs it. In order to meet this need, several of us sought employment. Some of us found a part-time job suited us, others got involved in one of Pearce's many work programs. From food service to pumping gas, to retail sales, to window washing, we worked at a variety of jobs. Yet no matter which job we had, two facts rang true: Work cramped our leisure time, and we considered a reasonable amount of pay to be just a little more than we were currently making.

Productions

Many organizations around Pearce specialized in on-stage performance. The Drama Department, headed by Zona Ray, produced many plays for us to see. Among the plays are Neil Simon's Barefoot in the Park and Aristotle's Antigone. The choir also had concerts for us, as well as participating in the Mustang Homecoming Revue. The Jazz Band, Orchestra, and Symphonics I and II performed on stage a few times during the course of the school year. As if these were not enough, the Pacesetters' annual revue and the Senior Talent Show afforded more of us the chance to perform in a production.

E.

As fall's chill crept upon us, the all-American tradition of Homecoming Week arrived. To limit Homecoming to a week was sheer lunacy; thoughts of hall decorations, dates, dinners, and dances began weeks before Homecoming.

As soon as the international theme was announced, clubs began planning their halls. A small fortune in paint, crepe paper, glue, tape, and cardboard went into those halls. The Senior's yellow brick road and rainbow caught our imaginations while the Junior's rendition of the Bahama's captured the prize. The Latin Club's traditional "GO, MUSTANG" approach was very individualistic (they even had cheese and bread set up on the Italian Cafe's table). Everything was beautiful; Pearce was a dreamland for a few hours.

No Homecoming week would be complete without a full-scale pep rally. Needless to say, we put our resources together and came up with a show to end all shows. Coach Pickens' "flashing" his stomach got a laugh, the balloons added a super flair, and the presentation of the Homecoming Court built the excitement. After the Alma Mater, we went to our sixth period classes dreaming of the evening to come.

Homecoming evening started for most of us at the football game. Even though we lost, our spirits were not dampened: we still felt the excitement as Kelly Leech was named Homecoming Queen for 1978-79. We also enjoyed the halftime show. After the game, we took time to change into our best clothes for an appearance at the dance with our dates. We danced and laughed, shared the moments of the day with each other: the triumphs and tragedies.

Or perhaps Homecoming Week was just like the other 51 weeks in the year . . .

Gathering Together

We spent much of our time involved in various organizations. Pearce High School offered many opportunities to expand our interests through sports and clubs. We could participate in everything from football to French, soccer to speech, volleyball to Vocal Ensemble. The benefits of being active were just as numerous as the organizations themselves.

In a club or sport at Pearce we could develop our skills. Baseball afforded a chance to produce the best athlete we could be. We could develop speed and agility through activity in soccer. Coordination and muscle control could have been improved had we participated in gymnastics. If languages were our interest, we could join the French, German, Spanish, Latin, or Italian Clubs. For the science-minded, Mu Alpha Theta and the Science club afforded us a chance to expand on our mathematical and

(continued from page 30) scientific skills. Another skill we could develop was in our relationship communication.

Since our world runs on words, being able to communicate was crucial for us, and in an organization at Pearce we learned to talk. Whether we were discussing with the coach a new play or presenting a fund raising project to a club, we expanded our speech skills since we had to get our ideas across to the others. Our vocal talents grew as we performed in the Senior Play, Brigadoon, or sang in the choir. But more important than developing communication skills was developing our friendships.

Through the activities at Pearce we made and enhanced key relationships. We shared a common spirit that strengthened our ties when we cheered at a pep rlly. A special closeness grew when we were slaves for the Latin Club and when we made a sign for the football team. A close spirit developed as we decorated the Homecoming hall for our club.

Yet, most important is that Pearce's organizations allowed us to have fun.

Clubs

Nearly 50 clubs were active at Pearce during the 1978-79 school year, offering all of us a chance to grow. Regardless of our interests, there was a club to join that at least dabbled in our interest. If we liked writing, there was the Writers' Guild to join. Science interested us, so we formed a science club. A new foreign language club was formed, the Italian Club, adding another to the long list of language clubs. These clubs and the others offered us the chance to learn to work with others, to meet new people, and to share in life. They were a catalyst in our maturing process.

A lively group of eight seniors and three juniors, the award-winning Varsity Cheerleaders, promoted many spirit activities throughout the year. Meeting every day, the cheerleaders organized skits, competitions, and routines for the pep rallies and provided undying support for Varsity athletics. Their skill and enthusiasm were also exhibited this summer at the Southern Methodist University Cheerleading Camp, where they were chosen as one of the top ten squads and received the spirit stick. Pacesetters

Under the direction of Miss Lisa Owens, the Pacesetters performed at pep rallies and sports events, marched in parades, and competed with other drill teams. In addition, they sponsored the Homecoming Dance and the Pacesetter Review, and sold football programs at each game. They showed their talent not only by the awards they have won (superior ratings at Southern Methodist University and North Texas State University workshops), but also by their lively and imaginative performances which utilized such props as large wooden boxes, colorful jump ropes, and red-and-white-striped umbrellas. Although each performance looked almost flawless and effortless, many hours of hard work were required to attain this perfection. The girls devoted many hours each week to practice: on school mornings and on Tuesday and Thursday afternoons. Wranglers

Suspender-clad and spirit-filled, twelve enthusiastic seniors and juniors comprised the Wranglers, who, in the words of member Marcus Loy, were "a non-class, non-biased organization whose goal was to create complete and total unity in the school and to keep school spirit at the high level where it belongs." And indeed, the Wranglers did much towards achieving this goal. Mighty Mustang Band

Under the direction of Tom Bennett and Dave Allred, the 180-member-strong Mighty Mustang Band completed another successful year. For the eleventh consecutive year they won first division ratings at UIL contests, and provided entertainment at pep rallies, games, and concerts. To achieve this, band members spent many hours before, during, and after school in rehearsal. They also sold magazines and light bulbs, took inventory at Titche's, and held the Homecoming Revue to raise money. Not only did the band provide superior entertainment for audiences, but it gave members "a meaningful band experience," said band officer Chris Burnley.

With brass shining, flags waving, and spirits rising, the Mighty Mustang Band dazzled audiences at contests, pep rallies, and football games. From long, intense practices in the summer to early morning drills in the fall, the band achieved excellence, receiving superior ratings at UIL contests for the eleventh year in a row. But judges were not the only ones who recognized the band's talent. Spirited pep rallies and stunning half-time performances were provided by the Marching Band. Students and fans alike sang chants and clapped along as the band played. Much of this year's terrific spirit can be credited to the Mighty Mustang Band.

Choir

The Girls' Choir performed at fall, Christmas, spring, and pop concerts and later they competed in Galveston. They sold M&M's, calendars and even held a disco dance this year to boost their funds. In the past years the choir has won sweepstakes trophies and first division in concert and sight reading. Singing without music and sight reading were just a few accomplishments of the A Capella Choir. During the year the choir gave a Christmas concert and also attended Regional Area and State contests. Vocal Ensemble was the busiest group in the J. J. Pearce choir department. The members of this choir performed at civic clubs, hospitals, shopping centers and many contests. "The Vocal Ensemble gives students an opportunity to perform in a small vocal group doing a wide range of music from jazz to pop," according to Wade Bennett, J. J. Pearce choir director. The ensemble received first division rating at both the Texas State Solo Ensemble and the UIL Solo Ensemble contests. Sixteen talented choir members made up the Bel Canto choir. This group met to practice every Tuesday morning before school. President Ray Herman and Vice-President Donna Shepard helped plan a few extracurricular activities in vocal music.

National Honor Society

A.

National Honor Society is an organization which recognizes high school students who excel in scholarship, leadership, service, and character. Membership was based on a thorough selection process, as described by NHS President Mike Venincasa: "Pearce seniors and juniors who had a 90 average or above were sent letters from the NHS informing them of their eligibility for membership. Interested students filled out and submitted applications. Members were then chosen by a point system based upon scholastic average, character, leadership, and service. Each of these qualifications counted equally in choosing new members." This year, twenty-two new members were inducted, bringing total membership to thirty-four. The NHS met bimonthly to discuss and plan fund-raising projects such as selling corsages and boutonnieres for Homecoming and sponsoring the Christmas Dance. They also participated in service projects during the year.

Italian Club

Pearce now has the only Italian Club in Texas. "We offer practice for those who speak Italian and acquaint students with the Italian culture," says club President Bill Madison. The club has been busy sampling the foods, art, and songs of the Italian nation to offer a better understanding of the culture of Italy. They have prepared food at Pearce and also dined at local restaurants throughout the year. This recently-formed club was sponsored by Ms. Cervera.

Spanish Club

"Through activities that supplement what is learned in class, we hope to gain an increased understanding and awareness of the culture of the Spanish-speaking people," said Christina Long, Spanish Club president. These activities included reproducing a Mexican patio scene for their Homecoming hall, which won second place, dining at Mexican restaurants, and having a party that celebrated Christmas according to Spanish customs. In addition, the club donated money that was earned through the annual Valentine Day carnation sales to charity. In the spring members attended the Pan American Student Forum convention in San Antonio.

Senior Class Council

Raising money for the Prom and having a good time doing it were the main objectives of the Senior Class. They sold donuts each morning in the Corral, and sponsored dances, assemblies, the Senior Play, Brigadoon, the Senior Talent Show, and the Senior Slide Show. During Homecoming the Seniors and their hall could be found "somewhere over the rainbow" in the land of Oz, complete with yellow brick road, flying monkeys, and the Emerald City. Although their hall was disqualified from competition, the Seniors' spirit was not dampened, and they completed their year with their Prom at the Fairmont Hotel and graduation at Moody Coliseum.

"As an organization, the Mustang Annual Staff offers much more to the students of Pearce than just a book. They offer memories, and the feelings that those memories represent. In ten years the exhilaration of a pep rally will be gone, the excitement of an assembly will be forgotten, the sweet agony of homework will be lost. Yet by simply flipping open the yearbook, the smells, the tastes, the sights, and the feelings of those events will be recalled; you will be young again, enjoying life and love. The Mustang Annual Staff has that sole purpose as its reason for existence."

Pony Express Staff

Not only did the Pony Express staff provide Pearce students with a high-quality newspaper, but it served as valuable, practical experience for anyone who was considering a career in writing. Staff members devoted many hours to each issue of the Pony Express. They researched and wrote stories, corrected copies, prepared plans for layouts, and pasted copy on the pages. For their outstanding work, they received numerous awards from Quill and Scroll, UIL, THSPA, and the Dallas Times Herald, but as one staff member explained, "The greatest reward is the relief when each issue comes out safely."

Journalism Photographers

Making up a very essential part of the journalism department were the six photographers of Pearce. Chris Burnley, the photographic editor, commented, "The Pony Express and the Mustang annual offer a unique opportunity for students interested in photography to pursue that interest in a school-related activity." At a seminar at Southern Methodist University, Nancy Helwic and Bill Herbert won first and second place respectively in advanced photography the preceeding summer. Although these photographers were rarely credited, the annual and newspaper staffs appreciated their work and effort very much throughut the school year.

College Club

Over sixty students interested in observing several colleges were given the opportunity this year through the College Club. By taking field trips to several schools including Southern Methodist University and University of Texas, these students learned about entrance requirements, social activities and the general atmosphere of the campuses. President Laura Fuchs organized the club of juniors and seniors during the school year.

American Field Service

American Field Service brought students from foreign countries to the United States and sent American students abroad to live and study in a foreign environment. The AFS held a soccer clinic with the Dallas Tornado and sponsored a dance in January to raise funds to provide exchange students with annuals, class rings, sports tickets, and other items. The club also went on field trips to acquaint students with various aspects of American culture. "This is all a part of making students from other countries feel at home in the U.S.," explained Mr. David London, sponsor of the club.

Mu Alpha Theta

Fifteen mathematicians from Pearce formed Mu Alpha Theta. This math club sponsored a team for contests in which students from other schools also participated. Mu Alpha Theta gave students a chance to meet with others to discuss mathematic problems and techniques to gain a better understanding of the field. Mrs. South sponsored this national mathematics honor society.

Science Club

This was the first year for the Science Club which consisted of twenty members. They worked to promote the advancement of scientific interest in the student body by offering a place for science-minded students to share their questions and answers with one another. The Science Club, sponsored by Ms. Eisenmann, invited many guest speakers and included outside events for its members. Among these speakers was Mr. Vandament who discussed Antarctica. The members also attended a laser show at Richland Community College.

Ecology Club

Although the Environmental Conservation Club was a small group, it served the entire community. The members of this club sponsored a Recycle Day for paper, glass, and cans to help clean up our surroundings. Club president, Andy Winter, said the club gives students "a chance to do something active and affirmative in respect to our environment." The club stayed busy with the numerous service projects this year.

Thirty active students interested in outdoor recreation formed the Woods and Waters club. This year's co-presidents were Brian Cheairs and Gary Luna. The members learned new skills in hunting and fishing under the direction of Mr. Mymern, Mr. Blair, and Mr. Moore. Throughout the school year, the club participated in many field trips and contests. The club also received the Marksmanship Award for the North Texas Area in the shotgun division.

Gourmet Club

The Gourmet Club gave students a chance to experiment with different types of food. They took a field trip to Magic Pan to sample crepes and had a Christmas party for a kindergarten class. A love for food was all that was needed to have a great time in the Gourmet Club.

HECE

Home Economics Cooperative Education was made up of juniors and seniors who were interested in areas such as: clothing, nutrition, housing, and human development. The club offered students an opportunity for leadership and a chance to be involved in meaningful projects. In addition to taking field trips to restaurants and daycare centers, HECE sponsored a Christmas program for young children and elderly people.

Vocational Office Education gave students who were interested in business a chance to improve their office skill. This club offered students opportunities for awards in office education and in office growth. The members attended the Regional and State conferences and an Employer Appreciation Dinner.

Sports

Some people considered Pearce an athletic disappointment due to our football season. Yet these individuals fail to see our momentous achievements in other sports. The girls' volleyball team was extremely successful. The Pearce track team provided a few awards for the trophy case. Cross Country also ran away with some great finishes at meets. The list goes on and on. If we would take a look at the complete record, we would discover that Pearce has a tradition of winners; the 1978-79 school year was no exception.

Varsity Football

Action filled the 1978 Mustang Football season. The team spent many months of hard work and much time devoted to building their skill. The Varsity Football team may have lost all but two games, but the excitement of each game was still abundant. Every move Pearce made brought the anticipation of a possible game-saving play. The cheerleaders rallied spirit and the student body was banded together always in support of their team. Coached by Hilton Lambeth, the group feels that because of this, although their final record did not put them on top, they still had a successful season.

Preparation for a game began many days before the actual game. The team watched films during fourth period helping them plan different tactics to use against their opponents. When they were not watching films, the players drilled and conditioned on the football field. After school, the players returned for another three hours of practice.

In addition to physical conditioning, the football players had to mentally condition themselves for the football game. The final pre-game preparation was a warm-up before the game.

Varsity Volleyball

Amazing! Never before had a girls sports team had so much support. But there was good reason for it. This year's Varsity Volleyball Team had a stupendous season. The team won the district title and went on to regionals and state. The girls practiced long and hard: the good results showed on the scoreboard. Games were action-packed, keeping fans on the edge of their seats. The Volleyball Team brought tremendous pride and honor to Pearce in 1978.

Cross Country Track

Cross-Country track was one of the most successful sports in 1978. Both the boys' and the girls' teams had favorable outcomes at the end of their seasons. Practice in which the runners improved their abilities greatly began in the early summer lasting deep into November. The teams' two new coaches this year were Boys' Cross-Country coach Bo Brown and Girls' Cross-Country coach Chris Stanley. The new coaches helped runners from both teams place in every meet in which they competed.

Lining Up

One of the major factors in our lives at Pearce High School was people. Everywhere we turned, people were there. There was no escaping those people!

We shared our lives with our friends. Early in the morning we practiced with our close friends for our performances. During first period we exchanged and discussed the latest news. Break afforded a chance to see many of our friends, if we could get through the crowd to them. At lunch we all sat around one table and shot the breeze. After school we spent time with our friends. We either studied together, worked on a club project, or just went out for a drive. Indeed, we spent quite a bit of time with our friends.

The faculty of Pearce also was influential in our lives. They taught us academics, and shared our hurts and joys. Yet they offered an education in how to get along with others as well.

Though people surrounded us constantly, we could not survive without them. They are one of the few good excesses in our lives.

Faculty

So you've dug out your old yearbook and are looking through at the faculty. Ah, yes. Remember that first high school teacher you met? She smiled with a slightly wicked grin that spread fear throughout your sophomore heart. Then there was the time you and your classmates all hid from the teacher: she walked in to an empty classroom. Horrid memories of your first quarter exam flash back. Who would believe that your English teacher would ask for an essay over Animal Farm's symbolism in two short hours? Yet what truly fascinated you is that you finished it in one hour. But think carefully. Wasn't it all worth it? Not only did you gain an academic education, but you learned to work with people. The faculty did indeed offer you a full education.

Robert H. Stamps, Principal

"As principal of one of the largest high schools in Dallas County, it is my desire that the students of J.J. Pearce High School will achieve the tools necessary to continue to grow and be productive in our society after their public education is terminated. In this process, students should be afforded the finest quality instructors and curriculum befitting the educational excellence of the Richardson Independent School District. Our students have demonstrated the potential successes for which this school has gained recognition. I know that we will continue to grow, not only in size, but stature as well."

Eight individuals served the public as members of the Richardson Independent School District's Board of Trustees. Meeting on the first Monday of the month, board members listened to special reports, carried on routine business, and answered informal question from those in attendance. These meetings set policy for the district and resolved conflicts over questionable circumstances which previous policies did not resolve. John A. Stallings served as President.

Secretaries

Rumor has always held that secretaries were the people who truly ran Pearce High School. They did keep the finances in order, tabulate absences, and issue summons. Secretaries also kept staff and students informed with numerous memos. They kept the paperwork and red tape to a minimum, making our lives easier. While the administrators really ran the school, PHS's secretaries were still invaluable to all.

"While I was teaching a foods class, three football boys really did me in! I call it the 'Cranberry Caper.'

"They were to prepare a fresh cranberry salad during first period. They begged me to let them come in early to start their lab to make sure everything turned out just right. I said okay, but I wouldn't be able to help them as I was busy getting ready for the day. I reminded them to read their recipe carefully and not to overload the blender while grinding up the fresh cranberries. Within five minutes they were hollering for help. I walked over — and sure enough — they had overloaded the blender.

"I turned the blender off and removed the lid. I started scooping out the excess cranberries. I still don't know why that boy reached over and turned on the blender. The packed cranberries came flying out and I found myself coated with cranberries. They were in my hair, eyes and clothes. I glanced at the clock and saw that school hadn't even started yet! Yep — it was going to be one of those days."

"The Deaf Education department at Pearce High School this year has one teacher, one interpreter-aide, and nine students. Our program serves high school students from all parts of the North Texas area, including Plano, McKinney, Sherman, and Dennison.

"The philosophy of the Deaf Education department here is that deaf students should not be isolated in one room all day. Rather, they should enjoy the benefits of taking part in classroom activities with their hearing peers. Therefore, the deaf students at Pearce are in regular classes, making hearing friends, and getting a taste of what the non-deaf world is like. When it is possible, an interpreter goes with the students to sign what is being said in the classroom. The teacher or the interpreter also assists the deaf students with note-taking. At the end of the day, there is a special study hall in which our deaf students can get extra help in any subject.

"One important part of deaf education is actually education of the hearing. Here at Pearce, a sign language class is provided to teach our signs to everyone who is interested in communicating with the deaf. The sign system used here is a new and innovative sign language called SEE (Seeing Essential English). We have found it most helpful in coping with the difficult vocabulary of regular classroom work.

"Our deaf education program here is unique. Thanks to the interest and co-operation of administrators, teachers, and students, it is providing a means for our deaf students to be actively involved in the hearing world around them."

"Now, as 10 years ago, the quality of education depends upon the standards an individual teacher maintains in the individual classroom. Those high standards must have support from parents and respect from students. Therefore, teacher, parent, and student must accept responsibility for whatever change in quality there might have been. I don't think the change has been significant. It bothers me when the quality of instruction is measured by the grade made by the student instead of the material mastered by the student. Moreover, how much a student learns very much depends on his desire to learn."

“One of the most important things for me to experience is traveling. I learned to appreciate my own culture through observing and taking part in other cultures. I experienced this intensity when I lived in Mexico City for two summers when I was in college. I lived with a Mexican family and studied in La Universidad Ibero Americana. I had to learn the ways of the Mexicans to survive.

“I have also compared other cultures on a couple of trips to Europe. I did observe that it is easier to understand foreign cultures when you know their language. This is my special interest since I majored in Spanish and took some introductory courses in two other languages in college. This knowledge increased my curiosity in foreign literature, art, music, government, geography, and history. Therefore, it helps me communicate these ideas to my students.

Melinda Smith

"Increasingly apparent to me is the fact that people who succeed in any sense of the word are goal-oriented. Setting goals, no matter how small, gives people a purpose. Though the goal may seem minor, like losing 5 pounds, saving $5 out of each paycheck, or staying awake through Act IV of Hamlet, achievement of these items brings a sense of satisfaction. Successful people set their goals independently of others and do not let obstacles, either real or imaginary, deter them from their purpose. Even if a goal is not achieved, the attempt to attain it gives a direction or purpose to the days and to the years. Goal-oriented people seem to find personal satisfaction in their lives and hold themselves in higher esteem. This esteem makes them less vulnerable to compromising themselves socially, vocationally, or emotionally."

Sophomores

Sophomores came by the hundreds; lost in the new world of high school at Pearce. The massive halls, the new faces, the frightening experiences, and the rules of PHS had them in a frenzy for six weeks. There was no need for a Sophomore initiation: their torture was in finding the path out of PHS at 3:35.

But we enjoyed watching the newcomers to Pearce. Jammed lockers brought aggravation to Sophomores, whereas upperclassmen knew that a swift kick would open any locker. A few Sophomores bought elevator passes. And there is no doubt that to this day there is one eternal Sophomore sitting in the boiler room (guided there by a kind Senior) awaiting the start of Sophomore English.

Juniors have traditionally been caught between the Seniors and the Sophomores in their class rivalries. Yet this year the Juniors got out of the class squeeze and forged their own destiny. They showed a great deal of spirit at pep rallies and won the Homecoming Hall Decorations' award in the fall.

The Class of '80 was enthusiastic, energetic, and involved. Their time was divided between school, home, work, and extra-curricular activities. From the Latin Club to the Wranglers, the Juniors helped develop spirit and unify not only their class, but the school as well.

Seniors

The Senior Class went in many directions this year. Occasionally working apart, but eventually coming together, Seniors provided funds for professionally painting the basketball court, provided much needed blood for the local blood bank, and generally led the school in spirit.

As a classification, the Seniors did not change in the slightest. We watched some leave after three classes a day, they had a job. Numerous spirit groups sprang up, just as in the past. The Senior Play, Brigadoon, was presented after many hours of hard work by faculty and students alike. But in the long run, when all is weighed out, the Class of '79 was like all the preceding graduates: its members wanted to make the most of their last year in high school.

and Who's Who

One time-honored tradition at Pearce was the election of class Favorites and Who's Who. Each of these awards distinguished a few Pearce students with recognition by either the student body (Favorites) or the leaders of Pearce (Who's Who).

Class Favorites, as forementioned, were chosen by the student body. In December, the students made nominations of fellow students for nine different categories. The students with the most nominations were placed on a ballot for the election in early January. Since some individuals were nominated for more than one category, it was decided that a candidate could win only one title. If he won a second category, the category in which the candidate led by the lesser per cent would be forfeited to the runner-up. Thus, the student body actively decided the 1978-79 Favorites.

Who's Who winners for the 1978-79 year were chosen by the leaders of the school: students, faculty and administration. Each candidate was nominated by faculty members for the election process, or a candidate could simply apply for Who's Who. Sheets describing the students' activities were circulated among twenty students, faculty and administrators for rating. The selection committee was to rate only those students they knew. After all the rating sheets were in, the total score was tabulated and divided by the number of rating sheets, giving an average score (usually about 43 out of a possible 60 points). Though only the top ten were chosen as Who's Who, there was a tie for tenth place. Thus eleven students were chosen for the 1978-79 Who's Who by Pearce's leaders.

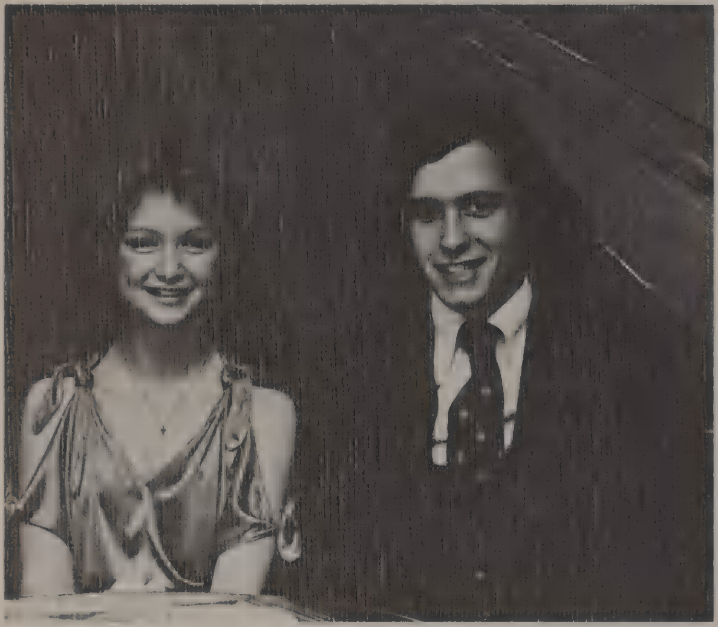
1978-'79
P.H.S. Favorites



Miss and Mr. P.H.S.

Kelly Leech and Wayne Avellanet

Kelly Leech was an energetic, spirit-oriented senior. She was a dedicated cheerleader who stayed active even after the cheers were over. Her involvement in Young Life, the Homecoming ceremonies, and Chandelle did not hinder Kelly from keeping up a "B" average.

Wayne Avellanet served his senior year as Student Council President and founder of the Chess Club. His other activities included debate, fencing, and creative writing. In addition, Wayne maintained a "B" average in his classes.

Senior Favorites

Darby Orr and Pam Pfaff

Darby Orr was a versatile senior. In addition to being active with the school's spirit, Darby participated in many out-of-school activities, including performances with bands, racing cars, and skateboarding. Even with his many interests, Darby maintained an "A" average in his classes, as well as an amiable attitude towards all.

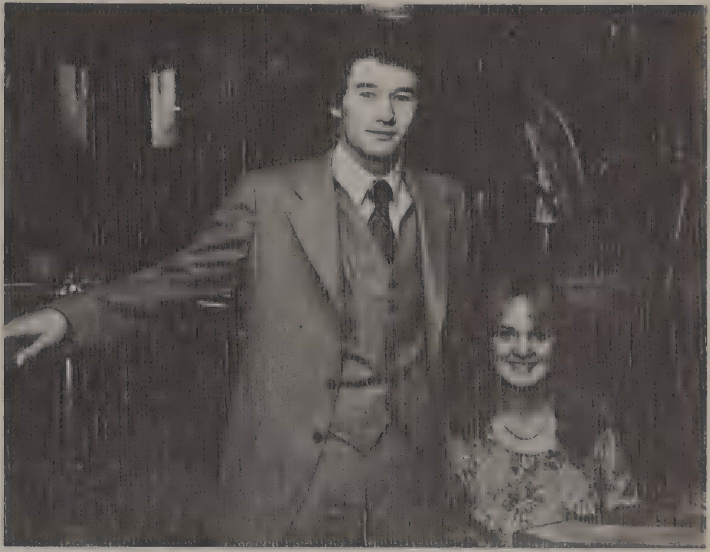
A warm smile and friendly personality were two major factors in Pam Pfaff's election to Senior Favorite. Her intense spirit and interest in others contributed to her popularity. Pam's cheerleading talents were not limited to cheers at pep rallies or games, but extended into a cheerleading class which she taught. Pam also maintained a high "B" average in her classes.

Junior Favorites

Tony Boone and Paige Billingsley

Junior Tony Boone held an "A" average this year in addition to keeping up his many hobbies. Not only did he participate in football, racquetball, water-skiing, and running, but Tony held interests in karate, photography, and art. His artistic ability allowed him to participate in the National Art Honor Society.

Paige Billingsley also had a variety of interests. When it came to sports, Paige participated in soccer and snow skiing. She was active in the Tri-Hi-Y program and in the First Baptist Youth Group of Richardson. Nominations for the Homecoming Court and a select trip to Europe also are included in Paige's credits.



Sophomore Favorites

Chip Robertson and Sandy Glenn

The 1978-79 Sophomore Favorites were both athletically oriented. Chip Robertson competed in football and baseball while Sandy Glenn participated in girls' volleyball, basketball, and cheerleading. Both also succeeded in maintaining a "B" average in their academic classes.

Mr. and Miss Sport

Jim Donaldson and Katrina Dornseifer

Mr. and Miss Sport were justly chosen due to their athletic participation. Jim Donaldson was active in football, wrestling, gymnastics, boxing, and judo. Katrina Dornseifer competed in volleyball and had considered going to the Junior Olympics. Her sights were also set on participating in volleyball as a sport in college.

Wittiest

Kyle Fair and Dawn Ambrose

Kyle Fair and Dawn Ambrose were voted as the wittiest for the 1978-79 school year. Their constant jokes, puns, and nonstop laughs contributed to their fame as humorists.

Miss and Mr. Personality

Brigitt Baird and Stuart Dickey

Seniors elected Brigitt Baird and Stuart Dickey as Miss and Mr. Personality. Brigitt's involvement in cheerleading and the Tri-Hi-Y program and Stuart's good-tempered personality helped win them the title.

Most Likely to Succeed

David Arment and Karen Bradshaw

David Arment was chosen as Most Likely to Succeed because of his dramatic flair. His vibrant vocals and acting, along with his amiable ways, convinced the voters of his inevitable success.

Karen Bradshaw's organizational ability, friendly manner, and devoted service helped make her Most Likely to Succeed in Pearce students' eyes. She was actively involved in the class council, Student Council, debate team, Pre-Law Club, to name a few. With her leadership qualifications, she appeared to be the one Most Likely to Succeed.

Most Beautiful and Most Handsome

Laura Bailey and Scott Willis

Laura Bailey's radiant face and long hair have won her many "awards", among them, Senior Homecoming Princess and a part in the Senior Play, Brigadoon. Of course, her natural charm and talent played a part in her victories, as well as in her capturing the 1978-79 title of Most Beautiful.

Scott Willis was named Most Handsome due to his tall surfer-from-California looks. His natural charisma and self-assured posture further aided the decision of the voters.

Pearce's Who's Who

Active was the only word for Mark York. In addition to being a cheerleader in his senior year, Mark served as vice-president of the National Honor Society and Senior Class. He has also been active with the Varsity Gymnastics Team. In his church, Mark participated in more than one church choir and teaching sessions, often in a leadership role. In the community he achieved Eagle Scout in the Boy Scouts of America, participated in the High-Y program, and was a member of the Gary Moore Singers, the official escorts for the candidates in the Miss Teenage America Pageant. Mark's list of honors include gymnastics awards, selection for the Society of Distinguished American High School Students, an Award of Merit from James M. Collins, member of Congress, to name just a few.

Diane Rotto was known for her pleasant personality and academic achievements. She maintained an "A" average while participating in Girls' Basketball, the National Honor Society, church activities, and other activities.

Marcus Loy often played the role of enthusiast. Marcus participated actively in the National Honor Society, Wranglers, Pre-Law Club, Spanish Club, and Senior Class. Whenever something needed to be done, Marcus was there to help.

Mark Venincasa has gained fame at Pearce due to his scientific involvement. When a junior, Mark took Advanced Placement Chemistry. His senior year, Mark took two A.P. classes: Calculus and Biology. In addition, Mark was involved in the Math Club, Science Club, Science Team, Computer Club, and Medical Explorers. He also did volunteer work for many medical organizations in the area.

Karen Bradshaw's work with many of Pearce's student organizations made her worthy of the Who's Who. She held office for the class councils in not only her sophomore and junior year, but also in her senior year. She held offices in many other clubs as well, and she actively participated in many organizations, school, church, and community.

Lori Rohloff was one of Pearce's outstanding students. Lori was artistically and musically talented, as well as intellectually gifted. She has won numerous honors for her musical and artistic accomplishments. Her intellectual gifts have given her an "A" average and membership in the National Honor Society.

Hunter Holliday's versatility has afforded him many activities in his life. He had been active in Student Council, Band, French Club, Class Councils, Drama, Gymnastics, National Honor Society, and Young Life during his high school career. Hunter and Mark York were also the first male cheerleaders at Pearce.

Gordon Reed participated in many school, church, and community clubs. At Pearce, Gordon was involved in the Spanish Club, Mu Alpha Theta, and Science Club. Church, sports, and fellowship groups also were in Gordon's list of activities. In the community, Gordon was the assistant coach for an area soccer team.

Quiet and dedicated, Christina Long was a major participant in the organizations at Pearce. She spent two years on the Annual Staff and was president of the honorary journalism club, Quill and Scroll, her senior year. She also held club offices in the Spanish Club and National Honor Society. Yet her dedication did not end with the organizations at Pearce; Christina was Valedictorian of the graduating class of 1979.

Debbie Rotto combined brains, beauty, and talent. She was a member of the National Honor Society and the Mustang Band. She also competed with the Girls' Basketball team.

Mike Venincasa, like his brother Mark, was active at Pearce. He was president of the National Honor Society during the 1978-79 school year. He also participated in the Math Club, Science Club, Student Council, Spanish Club, and Latin Club. He has done volunteer work for many medical research associations. Mike also graduated in the top five of his class.

Signing Off

As we turn to the last few pages of the book we should reflect back over our lives. Looking at the good times and the bad times we discover that there is no difference between the two, except for our perspectives. The "bad" times were bad because we made them so; the "good" times were good because we made them so. We also determined who our enemies and friends were by our responses to them. So, as we close the book and reflect on the past, let us look also toward the future and its goals for a better us.

Richardson's retail businesses served many purposes for us. They not only offered a place for us to work, but a place to spend. We bought bicycles, stereos, records, clothes, paper, notebooks, magazines, and dinners for two. It was our buying power that made up a large portion of Richardson's retail economy.

SAVING TIPS
on electric air conditioning

Central Systems

1. Set thermostat on 78°, or higher.
2. Have equipment checked seasonally by qualified serviceman.
3. Check filter every 30 days. Clean or replace when dirty.
4. Keep furniture, draperies away from air outlets and returns. Clean grills often.
5. Close draperies and blinds to keep out sunlight.
6. Keep fireplace damper closed.
7. Proper home insulation keeps heat out, cuts energy use.
8. Weatherstrip doors and windows. Caulk cracks.
9. Keep windows closed. Open outside doors as little as possible.

Window Units
Follow above suggestions, plus these:

10. Buy units with highest "energy efficiency ratio" (EER). If EER is not on sales tag, ask for it or figure it yourself. Divide "wattage" into "BTU" capacity.
11. Place unit where it'll get as little direct sun as possible.
12. Aim air outlets at lower half of doorway to next room to allow warm air from that room to enter at the doortop for recooling, recirculation.
13. Never vent air conditioner into garage. Ventilation is usually too poor for top performance of your unit.

Conserve electricity and you help conserve one or more of the fuels needed to produce it. Conserve fuels and you help assure that there will be enough to meet essential needs for electricity in the future.

If you would like additional information on conserving electricity, call the Customer Service Representative in the TP&L Office.

In ten years: "What did Mary look like in high school?" "Look, dear. You had 27 pictures in your high school annual; you must have been very popular!" "How disgusting!" "I wish they had put more pictures of my classmates and less of me; I know what I looked like." "Where is he?"

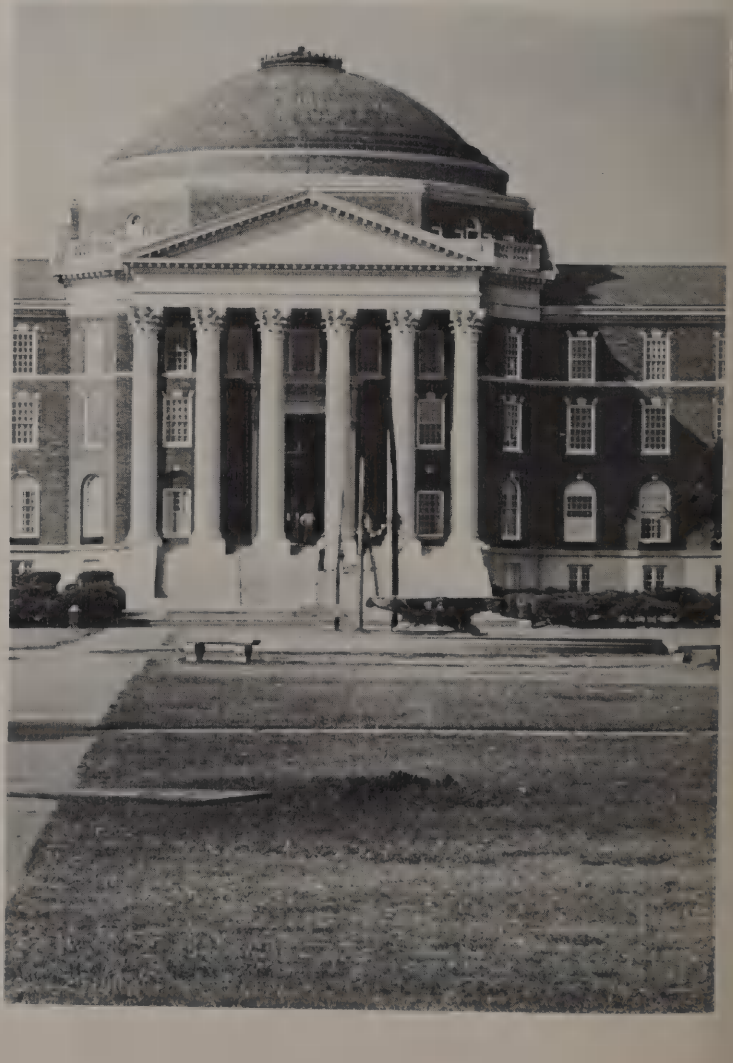
Before We Go . . .

Now that we have graduated, . . .

. . . we're on the road of life.



Some of us will go to college . . .

. . . others into professional sports, . . .

. . . others into steady jobs.

Mike
ITS BEEN FUN IN BIOLOGY THIS QUARTER.
YOU AUTO GOT A JOB DRAWING
FEMALES FOR PLAYBOY OR SOMETHING
TRY TO STAY OUT OF ANY MORE SKI
POLE AXIDENTS AND I WONT ROAL
ANY MORE CARS TAKE IT EASY
Mark Bocor

Sometimes everything will go wrong, . . .

. . . other times things will go right.

Yet, no matter what, always remember the good times of the high school years.

MUSTANGS

A note from the editor:

A closing letter from the editor is traditional in many books. Yet this book is anything but trad tional. Well since we've broken from tradition so much, we'll compromise and add some traditio back into the Mustang Annual.

Let me begin with a few words of explanation. The theme of this publication is "We're All A Litt Off." Hopefully the staff and I have carried the theme through by utilization of graphics, copy, an the general format. If, in the reader's eye, we haven't, tough bananas; we did our best.

I would like to apologize to all our readers who: (1) felt that their pictures were not in the boo enough times; (2) felt that when their pictures did appear in the book, they were the worst possib photographic quality available; (3) felt that their pictures were in the book too many times; (4) ha their names misspelled; (5) felt that their organizations received inadequate coverage; (6) did n like the amount of copy in the book; (7) did not like the amount of pictures in the book; (8) did n like the overall quality of the photographs in this publication; (9) were disappointed that the cov is not green and orange; or (10) have any other gripes about this book. (No doubt the journalis room will be flooded with phone calls after this publication finally is released, all from irate mot ers whose child falls into one of the ten forementioned categories.)

Perhaps the greatest injustice (yes, even greater than Mr. Stamps banning various "spiri organizations) is the minute recognition journalists receive. The twelve staff members responsib for this book put in a total of at least 600 hours work (not including breaks, class time, etc.) a even a little blood, much sweat, and occasionally tears. For what? To have people they have nev seen before complain about our color combination? I dare say not! Though producing an annu is almost a thankless job (their closest friends will thank them), these dedicated students do because they care about their fellow students. They want to make sure that in ten years when th Seniors of 1978-79 are looking back through their annuals, that those people will be able to fe the same feelings, see the same sights, and relive those important moments of their high scho career. So, find out who they are (see page 69), catch them in the hall, and say thanks.

Concerning thanks, I'd like to thank: Acie Mitchell, our Taylor Publishing Company represent tive, for all his patience and assistance; Stringfellow Photography for the tremendous pictures a constant cooperation; the Color Place for the color prints; the University of Texas at Dallas, th 94th Aerosquadron, and R. G. Maxwell's for their assistance with some photographs; Mike Kr man for working for me when deadlines rolled around; all the teachers who let me and vario staff members out of class to finish deadlines; the photographic staff, headed by Chris Burnley, the enormous amount of time, effort, and patience they gave the staff; Meg Skelton, our staff arti for the use of her artistic talents; the administration for its cooperation to the end; and M Melinda Smith, our brilliant advisor, for her devotion, encouragement, suggestions, knowledg efforts, patience, and lack of nerve-grating worry. As advisors go, there's none better.

Before I tell you that the book was printed by Taylor Publishing Company of Dallas, Texas, a that the paper it is printed on is 80-pound Saxmat with the copy set in 12-point Helvetica Standa the captions set in 8-point Helvetica Standard, and most of the headlines in 30-point Helveti Standard, and that the typestyle on the cover is Uptight Neon, and that the cover's base mater and color number is SMB-13, that the spot colors used are standard Taylor inks, the red is #3 and the silver is #81, and before I even mention that there were 2100 copies of the book printe let me thank the staff.

Despite all my yelling, stern voices, disgusted glances, "guilt" talks, angry eyes, and biting com ments, all of you did a great job. I was fortunate to work with you. (Who else would have put u with me?)

And so, to all our readers, happy memories and success to you; to Mrs. Smith, hopes that she' never get another editor who procrastinates; and to "Kyle's Angels," a smile, a hug, a "kiss," rose, and a special thank you.

Still alive,

John Kyle Boice

P.S. Long live the Mustang Rat Ranch!

Mike,
I'm glad the year is finally over
with and summer is here.
You really helped me get by English especially with your claps and smiles. I hope we have more classes together next year - and have a great summer. love you

Mike—
I'm glad I met ya this year—
you make English
a little more
"fun"! HA HA!
Hope to see ya
next year—
Missy

Mike,
Wasn't History fun?
(choke choke) It was easy for me but don't tell anyone, you better vote for the president! Anyway I'm glad I met you — you have a really good sense of humor + made history go a little faster, (if it was possible) Hope to see you this summer, if not next year. Try not to get in too much trouble having a great summer. See ya soon.
Love,
Amy Barcinski

Mike
Well I hope I can see you next year in one of my classes. Take care of yourself.
Love
